Democracy Works Through YOUth

The year 1951-52 marked another eventful period for Central's Student Council. Permanent committees were selected during October and November to organize and execute the Council's various plans and projects.

Early in the year the cabinet presented a general assembly program emphasizing the Student Council's importance and service to the school. At this time the Council's new officers were introduced: Phil Elder, president; Burch Oglesby, vice-president; Evelyn Hourigan, corresponding secretary; Roma Jo Seay, recording secretary; Nancy Teale, treasurer; Kathleen Koons, parliamentarian; Sally Bish, Kay Espy, Max Deardorff and Phil Burnaman, inter-school council representatives. The cabinet did a very efficient job in helping to plan and correlate the council's activities during the year.

At council meetings, held every other Friday morning at 8:20, the members discussed suggestions and plans. The sponsor, Miss Faye Laird, did an excellent job of guiding the activities.

Hello Central, the school's student director, was published and distributed by a committee in the council. Book covers, the school handbook, Spirit of Central, pennants, and Central's new decals were promoted by the sales committee.

A Howdy Week was sponsored to further friendly relationships. The annual all-school mixer was held following the Rogers-Central football game with music furnished by the Daze Band. The council also assisted with the Sophomore Mixer.

This year was Central's time to play host to the Interschool Council Convention, held in January. Various members attended out of city conventions—State at Stillwater, and Southern at Shreveport, Louisiana. By associating with students from other schools and participating in different discussion groups, these delegates from Central achieved a clearer realization and understanding of Democracy through YOUth.

Seniors Relate the Past

Only three years ago a group of sophomores entered Central destined to be one of the best classes ever to walk through the doors of the school. Sammy Meason, president, aided by Miss Gertrude Rector, the sophomore class adviser, led the class to a successful year. Donna Moore and Jimmy Jones, the leads of the sophomore class play, Tom Sawyer, made the rest of the school realize that the Class of Fifty-two had been marked by destiny.

The members began to feel that their high school days were drawing to a close when the class selected its senior rings in the junior year. Under the guidance of Miss Lulu B. Beckington, class adviser, Lee Young was president of this enthusiastic group. Coached by Miss Alphild Larson, they presented the junior class play, Dear Ruth, which starred Phil Elder and Evelyn Hourigan.

Yes, at last they were seniors and had begun their final year at Central. Doug Martin served as president; Phil Burnaman, vice-president; Barbara Love, secretary; and Joe Knowles treasurer. They were assisted by Miss Lulu B. Beckington, who again was the class adviser. The Barretts of Wimpole Street brought several curtain calls for its stars — Bob Griffin, Bill Parker, Jane Coody, and Marilyn Smith. Judy McDaniel reigned over the football team as Miss Central High XXXI with Betsy Biscup and Barbara Love as her attendants.

Kris Kringle found the seniors of Central on his list and made a personal visit to distribute gifts at the senior Christmas party. Then in quick succession the seniors ordered their graduation announcements, had measurements taken for their caps and gowns, and helped produce the Daze, KVOO Day, and Ritz week programs.

The finale came at last as seniors gathered during Senior Week for the farewell assembly, the breakfast at Mohawk, the dinner and dance at the Hotel Tulsa, the vesper services in the south auditorium, and commencement at the Coliseum.

As they walked through the doors for the final time, they knew that Central had taught them to look toward a new tomorrow with no fears.

Juniors Hit Halfway Mark

The Class of 1953 started the year off with a grand total of 1,034 juniors.

Late in their sophomore year the officers for 1951-1952 were elected. The results were Bob Humphrey, president; Rodney Martin, vice-president; Barbara Townsley, secretary; and Leroy Mayer, treasurer.

At the first of the year the football queen was chosen. Three lovely girls—Darlene Norman, Mary Carolyn Wright, and Anne Newmark—represented the junior class as attendants.

More royalty came forth when the Central High School Band voted Barbara Townsley their queen with Courtenay Heard and Anne Newmark as attendants.

Perhaps the most important event in a junior's year was the casting of the class play, A Young Man's Fancy, which was held November 2 and 3. Tom Webb and Jo Carol Teel had the leads. Supporting them were Janie Jones, Bob Wyatt, Bob Markley, Rodney Martin, Eulis Wing, and Charles Schusterman.

When football season got into full swing, Shirlie Long, Jodi Sheldon, Charles Schusterman, and Leroy Mayer were out in front to represent the class in spirit by cheering the home teams.

As the year progressed and many minds turned toward thoughts of the next year, a pin and ring committee was selected. Phil Campbell, Virginia Jones, Pat Green, Karen Molar, Kathryn Mays, Joan Taylor, and Tommy Moore had the difficult task of narrowing the selection of rings to three styles.

The juniors were not to be out done in honors. Elizabeth Brown and Layman Jones were the Art Club contest winners; Dale Bolen designed the Hello Central cover; and Layman Jones won the Printing Week art contest.

Now that their junior year is all in the past, the Class of 1953 looks forward to their final year with enthusiasm, knowledge, and more ability.

SCHOOL HYMN

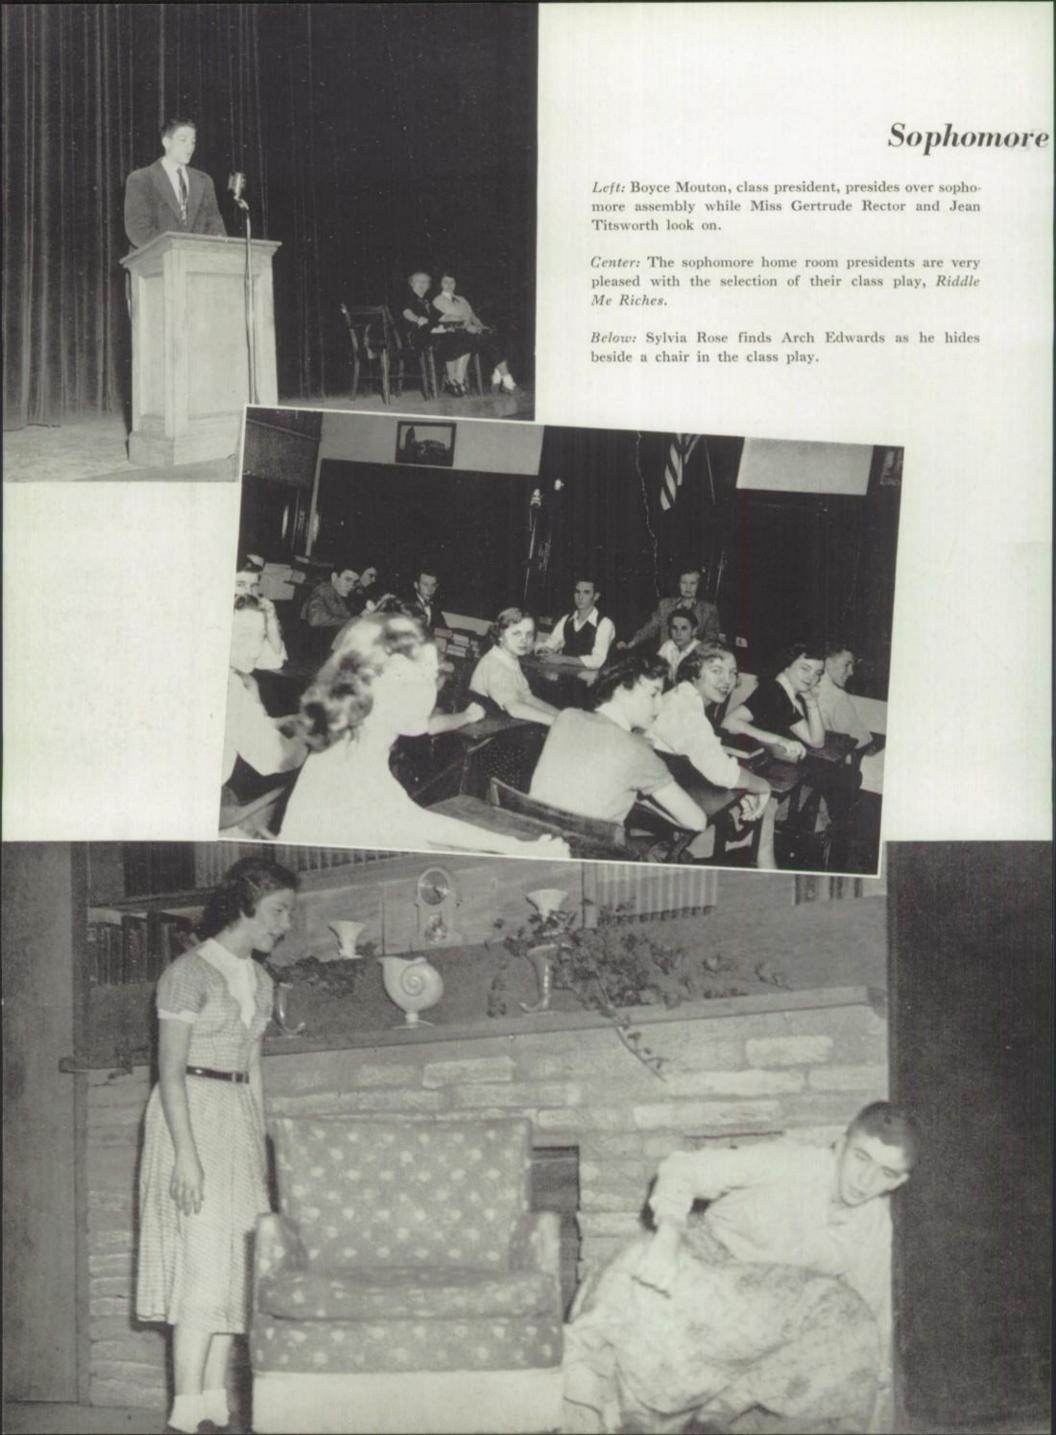

O, Great Spirit, at thy call,
We have pledged our youth,
Ever climbing, one and all,
Seek eternal truth.
With thy standards at our side,
Bound by purpose high,
Thou, Great Spirit, be our guide,
Where the way may lie.

With thy vision light our eyes,
Show thy heights above,
Grant us wisdom, thou art wise,
Teach us thy great love.
Consecrate our aim sincere,
Cleanse each inmost soul,
O, Great Spirit, be thou near,
Distant shines the goal.

For the beauty through each day,
Joy and friendship true,
Gifts of thine along the way,
Hear our thanks anew.
When we gain the farthest height,
By thy wisdom taught,
We shall find thee, truth and light,
Thou art all we sought.

Music by DOROTHY NAYLOR Words by DORIS ALLEN

Sophomores Look Forward

The class of 1954 stepped into the halls of Central as an ambitious and energetic group.

Under the capable guidance of Miss Gertrude Rector they elected their class officers. Officiating were Boyce Mouton, president; Don Bernabe, vice-president; Jean Titsworth, secretary; and Don Tattershall, treasurer.

Three girls—Susan Casey, Susan Millison, and Jean Titsworth—were elected attendants to Judy McDaniel, Miss Central High XXXI.

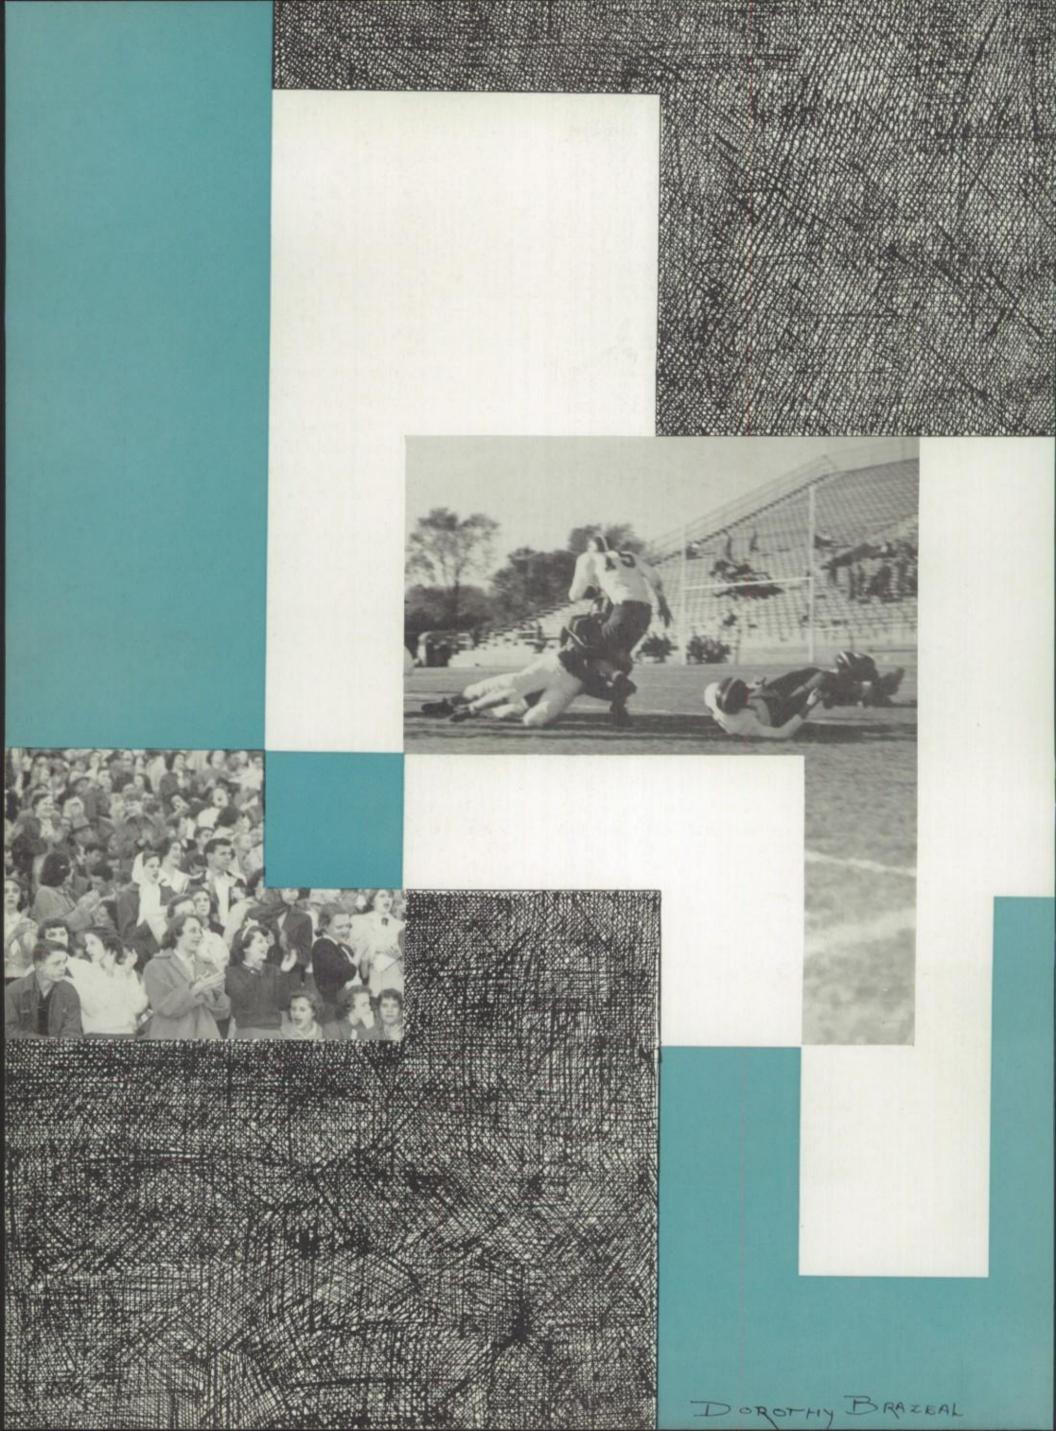

The sophomore mixer given November 10 brought out much of the talent of the class. The gala affair began in the south auditorium, where the sophomores got a preview of their classmates' ability. To serve as master of ceremonies was Phil Elder, assisted by Billy Crews. Soft drinks were free of charge. Among the games played were ping-pong and bingo. Providing music for ballroom dancing in the boys' gym was the Daze Band of 1952 in its initial appearance. Square dancing was in the girls' gym. The mixer provided a chance for these new Central students to get acquainted as well as a wonderful experience for all.

Riddle Me Riches was the title of the class play given February 1-2. The class was divided into two ticket selling groups. Leon Katapodis and Betty Coppinger were co-chairmen of the Riddles, and Ann Doerrie and Mary Margaret Scott were co-chairmen of the Riches.

In the play cast were Marilyn Bryant, Carol Lee Caldwell, Tom Canafax, Arch Edwards, Dorothy Hackleman, Betty Hall, Tom Matheson, Marilyn Nyhoff, John Penn, Tom Sharp, Angus Shearer, Maxine Solow, Carmen Tomberlin, Clark Venable, and Alvin Wick.

This enthusiastic class showed its school spirit and interest by taking part in Central's many activities, organizations, and stage productions. In view of all things it is evident that the Class of 1954 will make a great name for itself during its years at Central High School.

Gridsters Excel on the Football Field

Central's football Braves barely came out ahead in the win column in the 1951 season. The final record showed the team with five wins and four losses. After losing the initial and second games of the season, the boys in red found the range and burst into the win column by trouncing Fayetteville 39 to 26. The Pioneers of Stillwater were in the unbeaten ranks until their clash with the Braves. This year was the second in a row that the surging Red Suits had upset a favored Pioneer team. Within the city the Braves lost to Will Rogers by a 32 to 26 count but ran over Webster 18 to 0 to break even in the two annual rivalries.

Muskogee came through with another of their championship teams. The Braves did hold them down to 26 points this season but could not gain a single one themselves.

In spite of their won and lost record the Braves played some outstanding football when the chips were down. For example, the Central-Sapulpa clash on Thanksgiving Day was a nip and tuck battle all the way with the Chieftains finally coming out on top 21 to 19. Since Sapulpa had held the Muskogee Roughers to a tie in an earlier tilt with the Roughers, the Braves really deserved some praise.

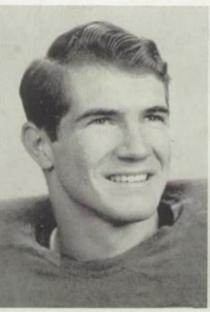

An outstanding backfield star for the Braves, Bob Waugh, and three equally outstanding linemen-Jerry Greer, Warren Godwin, and Clyde Marsau-were Godwin was a long and lanky pass snatcher who received many of Jay Brothers tosses. Marsau played a lot of tackle for the Braves. One of the most popular players, he was always in there hustling.

Grapplers Show Their Stuff

The 1951-52 Central wrestling team showed the skill and power developed by the fine coaching of Mr. Paul McDaniel as they swept through many successful matches with the top teams in the state. The team was sparked by the experienced John Lanning, Fred Davis, Phil Burnaman, Lee Young, and Kenneth Ellis, lettermen who had returned from the preceding season. The grapplers who were making their first debut on the mats showed that they could compete as well as the more experienced teammates.

The matsters came through their dual meet season with a fine record of six wins, one tie, and two losses. The high quality of their wrestling is illustrated by the fact that during the ninety individual matches of the dual season only three were lost by a pin or fall.

In the state meet the Braves finished in fourth place. Fred Davis and Lee Young took second place championships in this meet. Phil Burnaman, Kenneth Ellis, and Tommy Wiggs took third place in their weights, while Joe Miller and Rudy Weichert took fourth places.

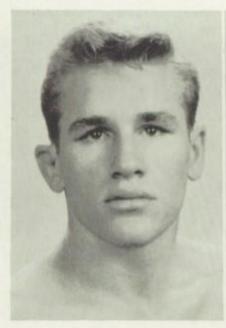

At the end of the season the team chose Fred Davis as team captain and gave Lee Young the citizenship award.

Bill Beasley, John Lanning, Joe Miller, Rudy Weichert, and Tommy Wiggs are returning for the 1952-53 season.

Basketeers Are Quick On Rebound

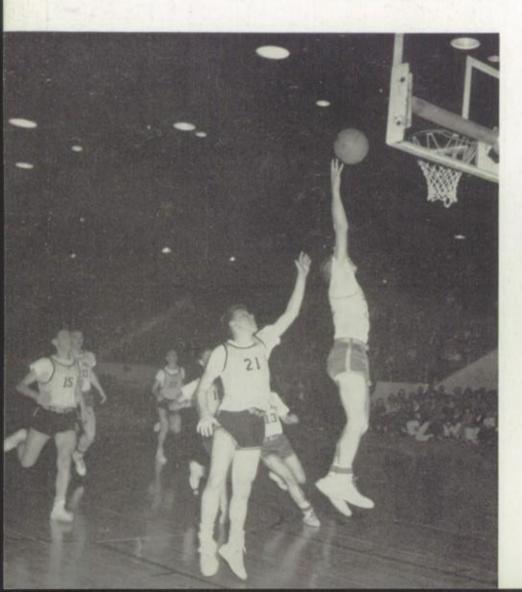

The Brave basketeers got off to a good start in the 1951-1952 season by nosing out Oklahoma City Northeast 56 to 54. After losing the next two games, the Central five again found the range in the Will Rogers Tournament and took the losers' bracket by trouncing Cushing and Sapulpa.

After the tournament the Braves lost two consecutive tilts to their two arch rivals, the Rogers Ropers and the Webster Warriors. Following these two setbacks the Red and White flew high with five consecutive triumphs over Sapulpa, Bartlesville, Muskogee, Okmulgee, and Bartlesville again.

Then the team fell into a losing rut which brought them seven straight losses and cost them a possible conference championship. The influenza epidemic hit Clarence Ehler's boys hard at crucial points in the season. After the seven drastic setbacks the Braves came back to win the last regular season game over Oklahoma City Northeast, the team they started the season by beating.

Joe Kile, a six-foot-three senior forward, was runner-up for the city scoring championship with an average of over eleven points a game. Third in the city in scoring was Tommy Moss, a diminutive five-foot-ten guard, who had an average of nine points a game. At the end of the season Kile and Warren Godwin, another senior forward, were elected honorary team captains.

Coach Ehlers' boys made a good beginning in the regional tournament, nosing out Cushing 36 to 35. They couldn't, however, stand up to the conference champions, the Rogers Ropers, and dropped the semi-final game 46 to 33.

late winter to prepare themselves for the competition in April.

The season opened in earnest early in April when the team met and defeated Cascia Hall 7½ to 8½. In golf as in a few other sports the low scorer is the winning team. To prepare for the important tournaments late in the season, the team competed against many other golfers during April. The intense preparation paid off at the conference tournament where the Braves calmly defeated all comers to take first place. Early in May they closed the season by playing off the grueling, nerve-racking state tournament and placing the team at fourth place.

The lettermen were Ralph Baker, J. T. Beams, Dolph Bridgewater, Fred Lawson, Bill Parker, and Bennie Pell. Working for another successful season when they returned in 1952 were Ralph Baker, J. T. Beams, Fred Lawson, Bill Parker, and Bennie Pell.

Net Aces Show Flashy Style

Playing inspired tennis, the 1951 Braves, coached by Mr. Clarence Ehlers, smashed their way to victory over all conference opponents. The team work of the players, coupled with their willingness to play, contributed to an easy victory and led the racqueteers into the state tournament.

The Braves blanked four out of six teams in the conference games, then entered into the Oklahoma Six Conference and were victorious.

In the Oklahoma Six Conference Jim Metzer was the singles champion, and Reed Nelson and Lloyd Elliot the runners-up. The doubles champions were Nelson and Elliot.

The success of last year's hard hitting, undefeated squad lies in the fact that each player contributed much to the team's benefit. Coach Ehlers had much to do with getting each individual player ready for his match.

Thinclads Set Spikes for Victory

With six lettermen — Jack Darrough, Bob Looney, Murrel Pell, Verl Philliber, Dan Reed, and Pat Samter—returning for the 1951 season, the Central track team, coached by Mr. William C. Lantz, looked forward to a fine season of competition against several other well-balanced teams.

Often compiling more points than all of the opposing teams combined, the team chalked up a formidable record of six firsts, two seconds, and one third place in nine meets.

No team was able to beat Central in dual competition. However at the O. U. state meet the combined efforts of many strong teams were too much for the Braves even though they fought gallantly to the end. Mickey Wilborn, running third in the 120-yard high hurdles, third in the 180-yard low hurdles, second in the high jump, and fourth in the broad jump; Bob Looney, placing second in the pole vault; Dick Stutsman, running fourth in the 880-yard dash; and the relay teams, ending fourth in the 880-yard relay and second in the mile relay, kept Central at third place in the meet.

Returning for the 1952 season were George DeShazo, Norman Hartness, Billy Miller, Jim Neal, Pat Samter, Dick Stutsman, and Jack Warren.

Girls' League Promotes Friendliness

With Mrs. Minnie May Summers as their sponsor, the Girls' League has done much to promote friendliness throughout the world. Again this year Mario Lini, a young Italian war refugee, was the responsibility of the juniors and seniors. Enough money was collected to support Mario for the third year. The sophomores had charge of the collection for the Babies' Milk Fund.

Many interesting assemblies, which proved to be very beneficial to the girls, were presented during the year. Interest was aroused during the first Girls' League assembly when Shirley Ann Adams and Shirley Bledsoe told of their week at Girls' State. In January further interest in citizenship was promoted when Jane Coody was awarded the D. A. R. citizenship award.

An annual affair during Home Economics Week is the style show in April. This program was presented again this year by the girls in clothing classes.

Officers of the Girls' League were the following: sophomores—Iris Mitchell, president; Beverly Benedict, vice-president; Jackie Campbell, secretary; and Alice Young, treasurer; juniors—Sally Bish, president; Shirlie Long, vice-president; Virginia Jones, secretary; and Carole Shaw, treasurer; seniors—Harriett Shafer, president; Pat Patterson, vice-president; Ann Cullen, secretary; and Sara Kersey, treasurer.

Boys' League Engages in Civic Problems

Boys' League, organized in 1949 by Mr. Lieb Richmond, dean of boys at Central, has engaged in civic problems around school, Christmas projects, and help for the needy.

The league is divided into three groups—Sophomore Boys' League, Junior Boys' League, and Senior Boys' League. Each unit has its own cabinet of officers. The sophomore cabinet consisted of Bob Dudley, president; Tom Canafax, vice-president, and Arch Edwards, secretary-treasurer. The juniors selected Ray Chalk as president, Harry Latham as veep; and Ted Price to do the writing and to take care of the finances. Seniors elected Tom Harris as leader, Howard Arney to take over in his absence, and Fred Davis to keep the records and money.

Home room representatives were sent to meetings which were for the whole group. The delegates then made a full report to the home room on what took place in the meeting.

The main function of the Senior Boys' League was to keep the seniors informed on the armed forces, vocations of all kinds, and colleges.

Junior Boys' League gave its members information and encouragement on the possibilities of entering school activities, athletics, and dramatics.

The sophomores concentrated mostly on orientation, methods of study, and selection of courses.

Heading the Scalper cabinet as president was Ray Brown. Frank Stewart was vice-president; Tony Wilson, secretary; and Joe Stover, treasurer. Leading the yells were George DeShazo, Bob Griffin, and Bill Crews, senior cheerleaders; Charles Schusterman and LeRoy Mayer, junior cheerleaders; and Don Bernabe and Bob Phillips, sophomore cheerleaders. Mr. Fred Broadhead and Mr. Ernest McHugh were sponsors of this enthusiastic group.

Honoring Judy McDaniel, Miss Central High XXXI, the Scalpers joined with the Red Feathers in October and decorated the boys gymnasium to entertain Central High students and the royal court at the annual Coronation Ball.

The Scalpers not only supported the Braves at their athletic contests but also ushered at the Daze.

After the football and basketball seasons and the Daze were over, the Scalpers settled down to rather quiet weekly meetings to conclude another year as loyal supporters of the Braves.

Athletes Emphasize Sportsmanship

The Lettermen's Club, made up of those boys who have earned a letter on Central's varsity teams, met every second and fourth Thursday of the month. Many games and meets were relived play by play by all of the members as the walls of their meeting room resounded with lively, informal discussions of the various athletic events.

The members learned much about Central's athletic program and became better acquainted with the other sports through these informal discussions and the talks given by members of the coaching staff. Coach Melvin E. Riggs started off the football season for the club by talking on the prospects for the 1951 team. During the winter season Coach Clarence Ehlers and Coach Paul McDaniel gave talks on basketball and wrestling. Early in the spring of the year, Coach William C. Lantz talked about the coming track season.

Beside the many informative discussions and talks directly concerned with athletics, the club devoted some time to entertainment given by many of Central's talented performers. At the close of the year, after all members had joined the club, the annual Lettermen's picnic was held.

Red Feathers Back the Braves

For the last thirteen years an athletic event at Central was not complete unless members of Red Feathers were present to cheer the teams on to victory.

AS A RED FEATHER PROJECT ANN ELLIOTT AND RUTHIE WOODS SELL BOOSTER BUTTONS TO OTHER MEMBERS.

Ann Trimble was elected to preside over the 850 members. Her cabinet consisted of Marilyn Utter, vice-president; Pat Patterson, secretary; and Barbara Love, treasurer. The cheer leaders were Judy McDaniel and Jane Coody, senior cheer leaders; Shirlie Long and Jodi Sheldon, junior cheer leaders; and Susie Millison and Pat Sisler, sophomore cheer leaders.

The football season contest was held to determine the three outstanding squads from a total of 42. Squads 13, 34, and 7 won. They had the privilege of getting their pictures in the Tom Tom as a reward. Later during the basketball season the outstanding squads were recognized again. Each member received a felt red-feather to wear on her jacket.

When the Red Feathers chartered buses to attend the Muskogee football game, the traditional red skirt and white jacket was seen in force. The members sold Central booster buttons, Central caps, and collected a ten-cent membership fee from all the girls to help raise money for operating expenses.

Red Feathers and Scalpers sponsored a dance in honor of the football queen, Judy McDaniel, a three-year cheer leader. At her coronation assembly all members in uniform were allowed to sit in the front center section and give cheers for the new queen.

To strengthen the school spirit the girls with the boys' pep club held assemblies before the Rogers and Muskogee games. They accepted challenges from Rogers and Webster by offering the Red Feather rattler against the Rogers hat; the Red Feather bow and arrow against the Webster moccasins. The rattler was lost, but the bow and arrow remained in the trophy case.

On Thursday mornings during home room period the Red Feathers met to hear talks from the athletic coaches and to practice yells. All Red Feather activities were made possible by the four sponsors—Mrs. Norma Lou Bridges, Miss Mary Katharine Winn, Miss Virginia Quesenbery, and Miss Madeleine McDonald. Every year Red Feathers has helped to promote a better school spirit.

Speakers Display Their Abilities

"Meeting please come to order. Our speaker this morning will be . . ." This phrase was a common one heard every other Monday and Tuesday morning from 8:15 to 9:15, for that was the time when Speakers' Bureau was in session.

Speakers' Bureau is an organization made up of juniors and seniors interested in public speaking. They appear in school assemblies, on radio, on civic club programs, and in the annual school Daze. The service they give to Central and the whole community is well-known and appreciated.

The social activities of Speakers' Bureau were numerous. At the beginning of school the members had a breakfast at Don's Restaurant, where the officers were elected and installed. At Christmas time they entered into the proper spirit by having a carolling party in the home of Roslyn Smulian. In February a costume party was planned. To close school in good fashion they had their annual spring picnic.

Miss Alphild Larson was sponsor for the organization. Officers for the 1951-52 Speakers' Bureau were Frank Stuart, president; Bill Crews (first semester) and Jane Coody (second semester), vice-president; Roslyn Smulian, corresponding secretary; Shirley Ann Adams, recording secretary; Sally Bish, treasurer; and Bill Parker, sergeant-at-arms.

BARBARA TOWNSLEY Queen of the Central Band

"We've got a zoot suit with a reet pleat and a scarlet band that can't be beat!"

That familiar cheer was heard at all the football games as Central students let the band know how proud they were of them.

Mr. Clarence F. Gates, director of the band, led the organization to a successful year with the assistance of James Carroll, captain; Jay Essley, lieutenant; James Wise, top sergeant; and Eddie Thompson, chief rank corporal.

In the ninth coronation ceremony Barbara Townsley was crowned Queen of the Central High School Band at halftime during the Central-Fayetteville football game. Her attendants were Anne Newmark and Courtenay Heard. The drum major was Roy Koerner, and the majorettes were Etta Marie Wilson, Imogene Wilson, Jean Best, and Marilynn Ojers.

Band Parades Down the Field

To raise money to buy new music, the combined band and orchestra entertained Central students in the girls' gymnasium at the Clefdwellers' Stomp after the Central-Fayetteville basketball game.

Some of the activities of the snappy red and white Central High School Marching Band were parading for many civic affairs, traveling to Muskogee and Bartlesville for the football games, and playing at some of the Tulsa University football games.

During the year the band gave programs at the junior high schools, had their annual Sunday concert in the south auditorium in March, and participated in the Spring Festival in May.

During the last month of school the band had a banquet to celebrate the year's achievements.

Orchestra Plays for School Activities

MR. GATES AND THE ORCHESTRA MEMBERS WORK FOR PERFECTION DURING THEIR DAILY REHEARSALS.

The Central orchestra has again completed a year of which it can well be proud. Looking back over the thirty-six weeks, the members can remember many interesting events and instructive experiences. Besides regular daily rehearsals in room 237 the orchestra was called upon to play for assemblies, speech arts and class plays, and to take part in the annual presentations of the Messiah and the Spring Festival. The group also gave a spring concert April 20. Part of the orchestra accompanied the Opera Club in the Vagabond King.

Mr. Clarence Gates, the director, was assisted by the two student directors, Betty Lou Welker and John Quinn. The student directors were chosen by Mr. Gates and the orchestra members after they had tried out by directing the orchestra in a simple number. This year the officers were Alice Sue Morris, president; Shirley Silver, vice-president; Betty Lou Welker, secretary-treasurer; Marilyn Niekamp, senior councilman; Carolyn Cox, junior councilman; and Clark Venable, sophomore councilman.

Members Work Together for Enjoyment

Along with their routine work the orchestra members participated in many outside activities. The orchestra and band combined held their annual picnic at Owen Park. February 8 was the date of the Clefdwellers' Stomp, a dance sponsored by the band and orchestra. On various occasions during the year small ensembles performed for clubs, lodges, and church organizations. One of the highlights of the year was the All-state Orchestra Clinic at Norman which was well represented by Central students. Learning to play, appreciate, and enjoy good music was not the only, or even the most important aim which the director tried to make the students realize. Even more important was the good citizenship which being an orchestra member taught the student. There was a merit system by which the members received merits or demerits, thus encouraging good citizenship.

In all activities, both school and social, Mr. Gates and the orchestra members worked together making the year very enjoyable and worthwhile.

A Cappella members can boast this year of a well-rounded season, full of song and merriment. Their new director, Miss Gayle Robb, proved to be a capable one and led her young songsters through a heavy but nonetheless enjoyable schedule.

The group consisted of sixty-four well-qualified voices. Their president was Joy Lou Whitsett, an accomplished pianist; Don Gibbson, vice-president; Jeanne Aston, secretary; and Stanley Cox, treasurer.

Their work began early in the fall when they started practicing for the coming assemblies on which they were to appear. Thanksgiving was the first important school appearance the choir made. They worked long and hard on their programs. A Cappella, as its name implies, sings without accompaniment, and the necessity for perfect pitch is a long sought-after aim.

With the coming of Christmas came the work on Handel's Messiah, the highlight of the holy season. The senior members of A Cappella sang for the senior Christmas party held before the holidays.

The club had Central as its audience many times during the past year, but Central wasn't the only group. A Cappella sang before the Rotary Club, and various churches and schools. The annual spring concert at the Coliseum marked another appearance for the club.

A recording of their voices was made for the Red Cross to be sent overseas. Another activity chalked up on the year's calendar was their fall picnic, which proved they could play as well as sing.

Although the opera was the most important undertaking of this group, the members of Opera Club also took part in the interschool presentation of The Messiah and the Spring Festival, besides appearing in the Freedom and Christmas assemblies.

Since many of the members of Opera Club were interested in making music their career, this organization gave them practice in solo work. Holding solo days each week helped the vocalists become accustomed to singing in front of an audience.

With the help of the officers—Jerry Hursh, president; Bruce Jones, vice-president; Judy McDaniel, secretary; and Carolyn Mayfield, treasurer—the club was guided to another suc-

Girls' Voices Blend Harmoniously

Along about fourth hour if anyone had happened to stroll past Room 426, he would have heard the St. Cecilians practicing for some program.

These girls have participated in assemblies and many other programs. Among them was the Nativity, which was presented here at Central at Christmas time. Near the first of the year they also sang for Senior Girls' League. With their beautiful voices fifty-one girls dressed in formals of many colors gave a good performance.

St. Cecilians is the only music organization at Central that is an all-girl one. This year Beverly Benedict was president; Kay Clark served as vice president; while Pat Fowler was the secretary; and Delphi Maxwell kept the money as treasurer.

To help develop their voices, every Thursday and Friday the members sang solos and duets for one another. They were graded on these.

During the year the St. Cecilians got together to have a party.

Miss Gayle Robb, director of the organization, said some of their favorite songs were Italian Street Song, Prayer from Hansel and Gretel, and Invocation to St. Cecilia.

Their talented accompanist was Kathryn Mays, a junior.

Future Teachers Prepare for Careers

The George Pearson Future Teachers of America Club was activated in the spring of 1950. Membership was made open to anyone interested in the teaching profession as a career.

The programs of the year consisted mainly of guest speakers, such as principals and student teachers. The club itself had both forum and panel discussions on objectives, worthwhile activities, reviews on educational articles and reports on field trips and conventions.

The organization chose to identify itself by the name of the late George Pearson, a beloved former teacher in Central High School. It received its charter under the name of the George Pearson Future Teachers of America Club from the National Education Association. The Sequoyah Future Teachers of America Club, University of Tulsa, installed the George Pearson Club at a beautiful service conducted on their campus.

For entertainment the group went on a picnic in the spring.

organization is for welfare and service to the school.

The members of Camarata ushered at all school performances with the exception of the Daze. These included the sophomore, junior, and senior class plays, two speech arts plays, the operetta, and the Messiah concert. Dressed in dark skirts and white blouses, the members directed visiting parents about the school at the P-T.A. reception and the Back-to-School Night.

The sponsors for Camarata were Mrs. Agnes Schellstede and Mrs. Mary Louise Simms. Margie Higley served as president of the group. Others on the cabinet were Judy McDaniel, vice president; Ella Davis, secretary; and Ann Cullen, treasurer.

Meetings were held every other Friday morning in the north auditorium. At that time the girls signed up for the nights they were going to usher and recorded their attendance for the previous performances. At the end of the year two members were awarded a service T.

The membership is limited to 60, and only junior and senior girls are eligible to belong. Applications were filed in the spring and voted on for membership. A tea was held in May for the new members.

Young Artists Sketch for Enjoyment

"It's a beautiful day for sketching" or "Let's go to a museum" were the remarks heard most often by the Art Club members. To promote their interest in art, the club had a year full of activities. They went on sketching trips, saw films, and visited Philbrook Art Center and The Thomas Gilcrease Foundation. Some of the speakers and demonstrators of art during the year were Mr. Howard Whitlatch, sculptor; Mr. Louis Weinberg, head of the ceramic and sculpture department at the University of Tulsa; and Mr. Bradley Place, who is a commercial artist.

At meetings the members did work in ceramics, various types of paintings, life drawings, and some sketching. To give the club a type of competition in order to do better work, the merchants of the Tulsa art stores offered art prizes for the best types of work.

The club met every Friday after school in the room of Mr. Gibson Byrd, who was the sponsor. The officers serving for the past year under Dale Bolen, president, were Layman Jones, vice-president; Elizabeth Brown, secretary; and Valjean McCarty, treasurer.

consisted of elected representatives from each home room and anyone who was interested.

They were sponsored this year by Mrs. Susie Sunderland. Nola Stokes was the president; Jim Lear, vice-president; Diane Winchester, secretary; and Nancy Franks, treasurer.

The membership drive was a big success. Sparked by special assemblies, the council passed its goal of four hundred dollars by reaching the five hundred and fifty mark. Again this year the council managed the filling of gift boxes by home rooms. Parties and programs were given at the Junior League Convalescent Home and the county farm.

Making records was a new project started this year. Central's vocal and instrumental groups recorded music of the United States. Sending the records to various countries, the Red Cross hopes for some in return.

Waste paper collections every two weeks kept the treasury filled. The money helped to finance the parties and the more than one hundred dollars worth of magazines sent to the Veterans' Hospital at Muskogee.

Club Strives for World Friendship

Beyond the wings of Central's stage is a greater stage. The purpose of the International Club is to learn about this stage, the stage of the world. The activities are built on the principle that through better knowledge and understanding the members can help in the struggle for peace. Parties had the international theme.

Hearing interesting speakers who had come to Tulsa from all parts of the world was often the privilege of the club members. Miss Carmen Velasco, a new teacher at Central, was the first speaker of the year. She spoke on the subject of the Mexican border towns. Later in the year Mrs. L. D. Kennedy spoke on Alaska.

Wednesday's meetings sometimes brought demonstrations of foreign coins, papers, stamps, or dolls. Using the money earned by candy sales, the club sent Christmas packages to Korea.

"Never to be forgotten," said the president, Nettie Kesseler, "is the UNESCO convention." The United Nations sponsored convention made a great impression on the students attending. Sponsored by Miss Sara Coleman, they spent two days, October 19 and 20, in Oklahoma City.

Staff Records Golden Memories

From the first day of school the Tom Tom Staff found that there was much work involved in putting out a yearbook. During the first semester the twenty-four members of the staff scheduled pictures, wrote stories, alphabetized pictures, assisted seniors in signing their pictures, and rushed around trying to make deadlines.

Under the guidance of Mr. Gibson Byrd, the art staff worked hard to create the drawings for this book.

When October rolled around, twelve of the staff members attended the Oklahoma Interscholastic Press Association in Norman. Many helpful points were gained from the meetings, and a wonderful time was had by everyone. For another year the Tom Tom was awarded Highest Honors in Class A.

Remaining on the staff the second semester were Shirley Swan, editor; Phyllis Hockenson, assistant editor; Ann Cullen, business manager; Norman Hartness and Charles Russell, photographers; and Ronald Patterson, Kay Herwig, Judy Holland, Martha Neudorff, and Helen McAlpine, staff members. Miss Ruth Holton, the editorial sponsor, directed the staff in meeting their deadlines.

Although it was discouraging at times, every member of the 1952 Tom Tom class appreciates the work and effort necessary to produce a good school annual and will always cherish this yearbook.

Future Journalists Work Together

The task of publishing a weekly newspaper involved much work and determination for the School Life staff. Their job included interviewing, writing stories and headlines, typing copy, proofreading, and getting advertising. Since the paper was issued every Thursday to eager students of Central, Will Rogers, and Webster, the assignments had to be done in a limited time.

Being there to make sure the paper was ready for publication was the editor, Shirley Bledsoe, who was also in charge of the first page. The second page editor was Harlene Berry; third page, Sandra Lyman; fourth page, Bill Welch; business manager, Lyman Fretwell; and exchange editor, Janice King. Their sponsor, Miss Ann Crotchett, was always available for giving advice and assistance.

Although the job of putting out a paper was hard work, the School Life staff found time for extra activities. They attended journalism conferences at the University of Oklahoma and at Tulsa University. A party for the Tom Tom staff in the fall, a breakfast at Christmas time, and a picnic were three enjoyable events in the year for the staff members.

develop safe handling of firearms, good sportsmanship, and co-ordination of the hand and eye.

With eleven new heavy duty target master rifles and three target backstops, the boys have done some good shooting. All forty-one of the members fired qualification scores. Nineteen boys qualified for a high sharpshooter, while twelve others worked on qualification bars leading to expert. Service awards and T's were given to Bill Johnson, Ronald Griffey, Joe Briscoe, and Layman Jones.

The boys of the club met every Tuesday in the girls' gym. The officers serving were Joe Briscoe, president; Ronald Griffey, secretary and treasurer; and Bill Johnson, range officer. Mr. Edward McCray was the instructor, while Mr. George Dorsch served as sponsor.

To give the boys some activities at the meetings two teams were chosen to fire against each other for competition. The losing team had to pay the bill for the refreshments.

Dramatists Discover Hidden Talents

The excitement of the theater has been an actual experience for most of the Thespians. Richard Green, one of its members, said, "Thespians is an exclusive organization for those who have a deep interest in acting and the promotion of the theater, whether amateur or professional."

The variety of skills the members possess include acting, directing, make-up, stage designing, and writing. Thespians constituted the main-stays of the speech arts and class plays. They could be found helping in many capacities on assemblies and the opera or heard on Central's radio program, The Experimental Theater of the Air. They were sponsored by Miss Isabelle E. Ronan. She was also a regional director of the national organization. The responsibility and added honor of president was given to Bill Parker. Other officers were Evelyn Hourigan, vice president; Bettie Jo Mahan, secretary; and Doug Martin, treasurer.

Chiefly an honorary society, its members did however participate in some theater activities as a group. During the year they prepared several one-act plays which they gave for church and

Society Makes Civic Contributions

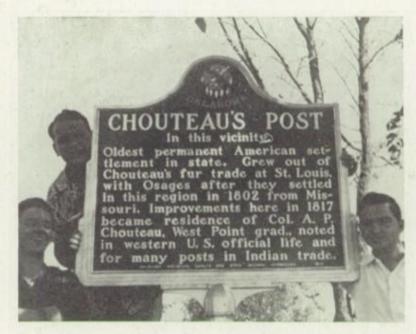

During the year 115 students enrolled in four community history classes made up the Tulsa Historical Society. They used the society as a medium through which they made their civic contributions.

On January 12, the same day that Tulsa celebrated its fifty-third birthday, the society began its fifteenth year of service to the people of Tulsa.

Students built up files by photostating old territorial newspapers. They took pictures of historical places and visited old battle grounds, forts, museums, trails, and Oklahoma Civil War battle sites. Several rare books were added to their library.

All of the members worked on compiling a community book which will be used as a reference for future community history classes. The collecting and compiling of this book of historical significance was the project emphasized by the 1951-1952 society.

In charge of all of the projects were the sponsor, Mrs. Edith A. Daugherty, and the

broaden the information gained by chemistry students in class and to provide information for other interested members.

During the first weeks of school the club initiated new members by the traditional ritual and elected officers for the new year. The officers were Jan Arps, president; Ralph Young, vice-president; Carol Daw, secretary; Lyman Fretwell, treasurer; and Dorothy Corn, program chairman.

Many field trips, guest speakers, and other activities filled the club's programs. The first field trip was a tour of Frankoma Pottery Laboratory, where the members were introduced to the chemistry of clays and glazes. On their visit to the Oklahoma Oxygen Company the group found the liquefication of oxygen and hydrogen to be a particularly interesting process. A trip to the U. S. Weather Bureau at the Municipal Airport, two films on crystal growing and electronics, and a talk on the Tulsa's water department provided other instructive programs.

A fall picnic and several other social affairs were held.

Medics Gain Valuable Information

The Medico Club was organized by students who were interested in the medical field. It encourages its members to become doctors, nurses, or representatives in other fields of medicine. Mr. A. E. Baer, physiology and psychology teacher, took over the sponsorship in February, 1951.

The Medico Club is one of the few of its kind in the United States. The meetings were held every Tuesday afternoon at 3:45. The year's activities included trips to St. John's Hospital, Tulsa Clinic, and to the Springer Clinic. Movies about science and medicine were shown at the meetings. The members had their blood typed by the Red Cross. The Medico Club was privileged to have such guest speakers as Dr. Ian Mac-Kenzie, bone specialist, Dr. Mary Graham, of the blood bank, and Dr. H. F. Flanigin, brain surgeon. The closing activity was a spring picnic.

The officers elected a few weeks after school started were Robert Rogers, president; Barbara Fleming, vice-president and social chairman; Charles Grosshans, attendance secretary; Martha

BILL BRAGDON, DRUMMER FOR THE DAZE BAND, DISPLAYS SOME OF HIS UNUSUAL STLYE AT THE DRUMS.

Practices were held every Tuesday and Thursday after school, with Mr. Clarence Gates as adviser.

The main purpose of this organization was to play for the Daze. This year, as always, the band had a special scene which featured its vocalist and opened with its theme song.

Of course the boys played for various dances, charities, and assemblies throughout the year, which found them making music for the Queen's Ball, the Sophomore Mixer, the Sigma-Keystoner Dance, and the Muskogee Veterans' Hospital.

For the first time the Daze Band played in the school gym for a dance which was sponsored by the Central band and orchestra. The alumni provided part of the entertainment, and all the proceeds from the dance went into the Daze Band's treasury to finance activities and buy music.

The members of the Daze Band are Bill Bragdon, drums; Tom Webster, piano; Ronny Kimball, David Cecil, James Allen, Roy Koerner, Bob Holland, and Garvin Emanuel, saxophones; James Carroll, Howard Tindall, Pat Richardson, and Billy Duffer, trumpets; and Dick Tinney, Arthur Zuniga, and Eddie Thompson, trombones

Projectionists Assist With Films

For the enjoyment of all classes visual education movies are held quite often in the north auditorium. But if it weren't for the projectionists, there would be no operators to show the movies. So that there would always be an available student for operating the machines, the Projection Club was formed two years ago.

A schedule has been worked out so that an operator is available for any of the five periods during the school day. Even though the Projection Club is a subject in which each member earns a credit, most of the students are in the club not just for the credit but for the enjoyment of their work.

Throughout the year different phases of visual education are learned which may be useful in one's future vocation. Mr. Albert Martin, sponsor, gives advice freely to the seventeen members while directing and instructing them in the use of the projectors.

Club meetings are held every Tuesday morning during home room period. A senior member,

Advertisers Promote Productions

"How many tickets have been sold so far?"
This question was heard many times at the meetings of the Advertising Board. Promoting the sale of activity budgets was the first job. Then came the job of selling tickets to the speech arts play, Double Door; the opera, The Vagabond King; and the spring speech arts play. At the weekly Tuesday morning meetings at 8:15 in room 417 the Advertising Board planned the campaigns. The members with artistic ability drew posters; others took care of the electric sign in the hall; while the rest promoted the sale of tickets in the homerooms.

With the help of the sponsors, Mrs. Ethel Johnson and Miss Jackie Wright, the club was capably guided by Karol Davis, president; Betty Duncan, vice-president; Sally Hughes, secretary; and Allen White, treasurer. Since many of the members hope to make advertising their career someday, several speakers addressed the club on opportunities in advertising.

A Halloween party was held at the home of Karol Davis. Other social activities were a Christmas dance at Jan Markley's and a spring picnic.

Craftsmen Work Behind the Scenes

"The show must go on" is a motto that applies to the stagecraft crews as well as to the actors themselves. Keeping the show going was quite a task, but the busy guardians of the stage were always on the job.

The Stagecraft Club supplied a realistic background for each performance. The members also made sure that lighting facilities were just right and that the properties were ready for all programs presented on the Central Daze.

Some of the boys who were veterans in the club were Jim Waggener, superintendent; Joe Jackson, scenery manager; Jack Gilliam, electricity manager; and Jerry Harmon, properties manager. All of these boys were seniors.

Mr. Albert Martin, director of stagecraft, kept the twenty-nine members working through all the year. There was one girl in stagecraft this year, Harriet Shafer.

At every stage performance of the year Central's able stagecraft crew were backstage to help

Members Find Square Dancing Fun

With a total of sixty members the Square Dance Club more than doubled its membership this year.

Hoedown music and a "yip, yipee" could be heard coming from the girls' north gym every Tuesday and Wednesday morning.

One party a month was the goal of the club. Guest callers were provided by the city adult square dance clubs. Professional dance orchestras furnished the music. To these dances, sponsored by the P-T.A., the entire school was invited. At the sophomore mixer, November 10, members assisted and exhibited various intricate square dances. On November 30 in the girls' north gym the club celebrated Christmas a month early with square dancing and the ever popular round dancing.

"Not only to have fun and promote friendship, but also to gain knowledge of the old fashioned ways of square dancing is the purpose of the Square Dance Club," said Miss Madeleine McDonald, sponsor and caller for the group. Mrs. Imagray Matthews, girls' physical education secretary, gave out with rhythmic square dance music.

Officers were Don Daniel, president; and Nettie Kessler, secretary-treasurer.

Interest and enthusiasm for a beginners' group prompted the advanced dancers to form a Beginners' Square Dance Club.

Athletics Develop Sportsmanship and Loyalty

The Girls' Athletic Association provides an excellent opportunity for the development of sportsmanship, skill in sports, team loyalty, and cooperation. This group, reorganized two years ago, had a membership of fifty girls. They were under the capable sponsorship of Miss Millie Boone and Miss Norma Hazelwood, physical education instructors.

Officers of the G.A.A. were Janet Codrey, president; Sue McGill, vice-president; Jo Jean Speaker, secretary; and Glayds Shell, treasurer.

These energetic girls could be found during their meetings learning or participating in such sports as basketball, volleyball, tennis, swimming, ping-pong, and life-saving. The club gave several parties during the year, ending with a spring picnic.

The letter "C" to be worn on athletic sweaters and certificates were awarded to the girls on the basis of sportsmanship, participation, and ability.

As members of this organization the girls learned more fully the meaning of true sportsmanship and team loyalty. They learned not only to give and take but also to abide by the rules. The girls became better citizens and had fun doing it.

Y-Teens Stress Public Service

The Y-Teens was a group of about two hundred girls, divided into five clubs each stressing service and social activities.

MILDRED GARRETT LIGHTS THE CANDLE DURING THE RECOGNITION SERVICE AS JOAN LUCAS AND EDWINA RANKIN LOOK ON.

The presidents of the clubs were Rosemary Wallace, Sand Springs; Pat Hawkins, Y-Teeners; Mary Jo Hunt, Scuffies; Mary Phelp, Y-Noria; and Mildred Garrett, Sanazol. Representatives from these formed the Inter-club council of which Mary Jo Hunt was president.

The program for this year included talks on good grooming and make-up. The groups had pot luck suppers, hayrides, dances, and picnics. Sometimes the girls played basketball. They participated in many service programs, such as helping needy families and working on Community Chest and Red Cross.

One of the annual events in which all the clubs took part was the hanging of the greens, where the girls used their artistic abilities to decorate the Y.W.C.A. building at Christmas time.

Joining a club is very easy. A girl may affiliate with one of the clubs now in existence or she may start a new club with fifteen girls and an adult sponsor.

Adult program directors of the teenage department of the Y.W.C.A. were Miss Barbara Rose and Miss Ronnie Martin.

Sigma Hi-Y Works for Democracy

The members of Sigma Hi-Y are workers for democracy. One of the most important activities performed this year was the Youth in Government convention held in Oklahoma City, January 25, 26, and 27. Each group sent a senator and representatives according to its members. At the convention each club presented a bill. After the convention the bills were put in booklet form in order that the state legislators could look over them.

The officers for this year were Fred Davis, president; Jimmy Rust, vice-president; Bob Burns, secretary; and Doug Hurley, treasurer. Bob Burns was the canteen president. Serving as sponsors were Mr. Forrest Kaylor and Mr. Byron Hummon.

Among the many activities in which the organization participated were the Easter Pageant, the Youth and Government convention, an annual Sweetheart Formal, and the Hi-Y World Service Carnival.

Frances Wright had the honor of representing both the Hi-Y and the Keystoners of Oklahoma at the national council meeting this year at Cleveland, Ohio.

Upon ending a successful year the Sigmas gathered for a banquet, elected their officers for the coming year, and then were off for a happy vacation at Camp Kemp.

members are seriously interested in becoming expert salesmen. They welcome every opportunity the D. E. club meetings offer for the discussion of their own problems encountered in salesmanship.

Mrs. Loucillah Kirkpatrick and Mrs. Lorna Stenger, as sponsors and counsellors, guided the club through an active year. Officers for the year were Harold Bumgardner, president; Joanne Rogers, vice-president; Zeda McClure, secretary; and Sue Wood, treasurer. The D.E.C. News, a quarterly newspaper published through the courtesy of the vocational printing classes, was enlivened by the cartoons of Editor Dale Matlock and the wit and wisdom of Co-editor Samuel Lynch.

Tulsa business men representing wholesale and retail firms spoke before the club's forty-five members at their bi-monthly meetings held on Friday in room M-7. Interesting field trips were taken to Frankoma Pottery and to the Commander Mills Manufacturing Company.

The annual Christmas party was a breakfast climaxed by the exchange of toys which were given to the Turley Orphans' Home.

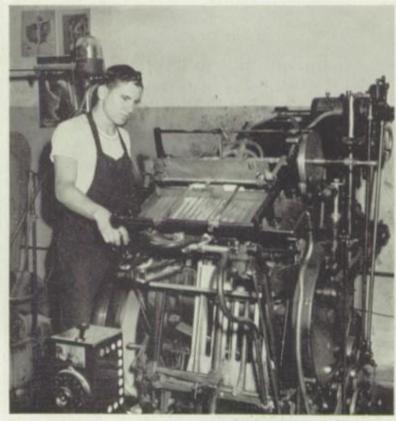

T. and I. Club Learns By Doing

To help the boys develop leadership abilities, to familiarize members with a broader view of the working world, to secure a better understanding of the common working problems, and to promote interest and knowledge in the various trades are the purposes of the Trade and Industrial Club.

The thirty-nine boys, placed according to their interests and aptitudes, represent over twenty different trades. All were in the co-operative diversified training program at Central.

The group attended school four hours each morning and went on the job for the other half day. One period of each day the boys studied things directly related to their jobs. During the other school hours they worked on academic requirements. Each boy earned four credits a semester at school and one credit for his work done on the job.

Mr. Raymond Johnson was the sponsor of the club. The officers for the year were Russell Mc-Broom, president; J. M. Pruitt, vice-president; Ed Pease, treasurer; Charles Goddard, student council representative; and Wilbur McAfee, boys' league representative.

The year did not consist entirely of work. The boys and their dates went to Paradise Farm for a moonlight wiener roast.

Business World Is Their Aim

To prepare students for their future vocation is the purpose of the Secretarial Club, an organization new to Central this year. Its activities helped the members to understand better the business world. Speakers, films, and demonstrations made this goal possible.

The officers who got this club under way were Deonne Martin, president; Georgia Lou Jones, vice-president; Florine Shelton, secretary; and Carlye Harshbarger, treasurer. The sponsor was Mr. Ralph Burcham.

The activities were high-lighted when Mr. Charles T. Clark of the Charles T. Clark Company gave a demonstration on color mimeographing. He also talked about the part it plays in the modern office.

Learning to operate machines as the duplicopy, mimeoscope, electric typewriter, dictaphone, marginator, ten-key adding machines, and tape recorders kept the members busy. Films, such as Telephone Courtesy and Duties of a Secretary, provided many helpful hints. The future secretaries found time for relaxing at a Christmas party with games and refreshments.

The preparation which this club affords in the use of these many machines and in office practices will help many to attain the best secretarial positions.

Key Club Donates Service to School

Service to class—service to school—service to community.

Although only one year old, Central's Key Club is fast becoming an important part in our school's community life. Formed on a foundation motto of "We Build," the thirty-one members of Key Club did their part in building better spirit, greater co-operation, and service to school projects.

Organized late in the last school year, the Key Club is sponsored by the Tulsa Kiwanis Club and is patterned after that civic organization. Key Club members are selected for their leadership and initiative. They are selected for their willingness to do the job.

No job was too large or too small for Key Club members. They took tickets at football games and other Central activities. The members sponsored Central's postage stamp machine in the school bank. They gave invaluable assistance in the Magic Empire Santa Claus parade.

Guiding officers for this year have been Greg Hosterman, president; Joe Knowles, vice-presi-

Each Monday night at 7:30 meetings of the three groups were held in the First Baptist Church. Presiding over the Theta Phis were Rose Ann Williams, president; Margie Hughes, vice-president; Thelma Kauffman, secretary; and Allene Bush, treasurer.

Holding the gavel for the Delta Omegas was Mary Evelyn Watts, president; Martha Shoemake, vice-president; Libby Davis, secretary; and Medabell Limball, treasurer.

Officers for Zeta were Beverly Stone, president; Sandra Williams, vice-president; Pat Boye, secretary; and Pauline Whisnant, treasurer.

One of the most important activities these girls undertook was to raise money for World Service. They did this by giving a carnival, by having a canteen every Friday night, and by their club dues.

Other activities they enjoyed were their Sweetheart Formal, their annual banquet, and the Easter Pageant.

Combining both work and play, the girls of the Theta Phi, Zeta, and Delta Omega Keystoners ended a well-round program this year.

Photographers Click Cameras

"The shutterbugs are coming," said Jerry Roberts, secretary, when the Camera Club, new to Central this year, was being organized. Mr. Russell Charles, sponsor, has had experience with the problems of photography, for he was photographic officer on Guam during World War II.

To manage the business of the organization the group elected officers and council members. Gracie Wiezorek, wielded the gavel, Jerry Roberts kept the minutes, and Lewis Davis collected the weekly dues. The council consisted of two sophomores, Tom Canafax and Ray Blanton, and two juniors, Shirley Ball and Lewis Davis.

Organized during the second semester, the Camera Club had weekly meetings on Thursday afternoons in room 435. The twelve members spent several weeks getting a constitution written and accepted. Miss Ruth Canady, member of Tulsa Camera Club, gave an instructive lecture on the operation of a camera. Mr. H. M. Masoner, Tulsa dealer in photographic supplies, explained the kinds and the uses of film.

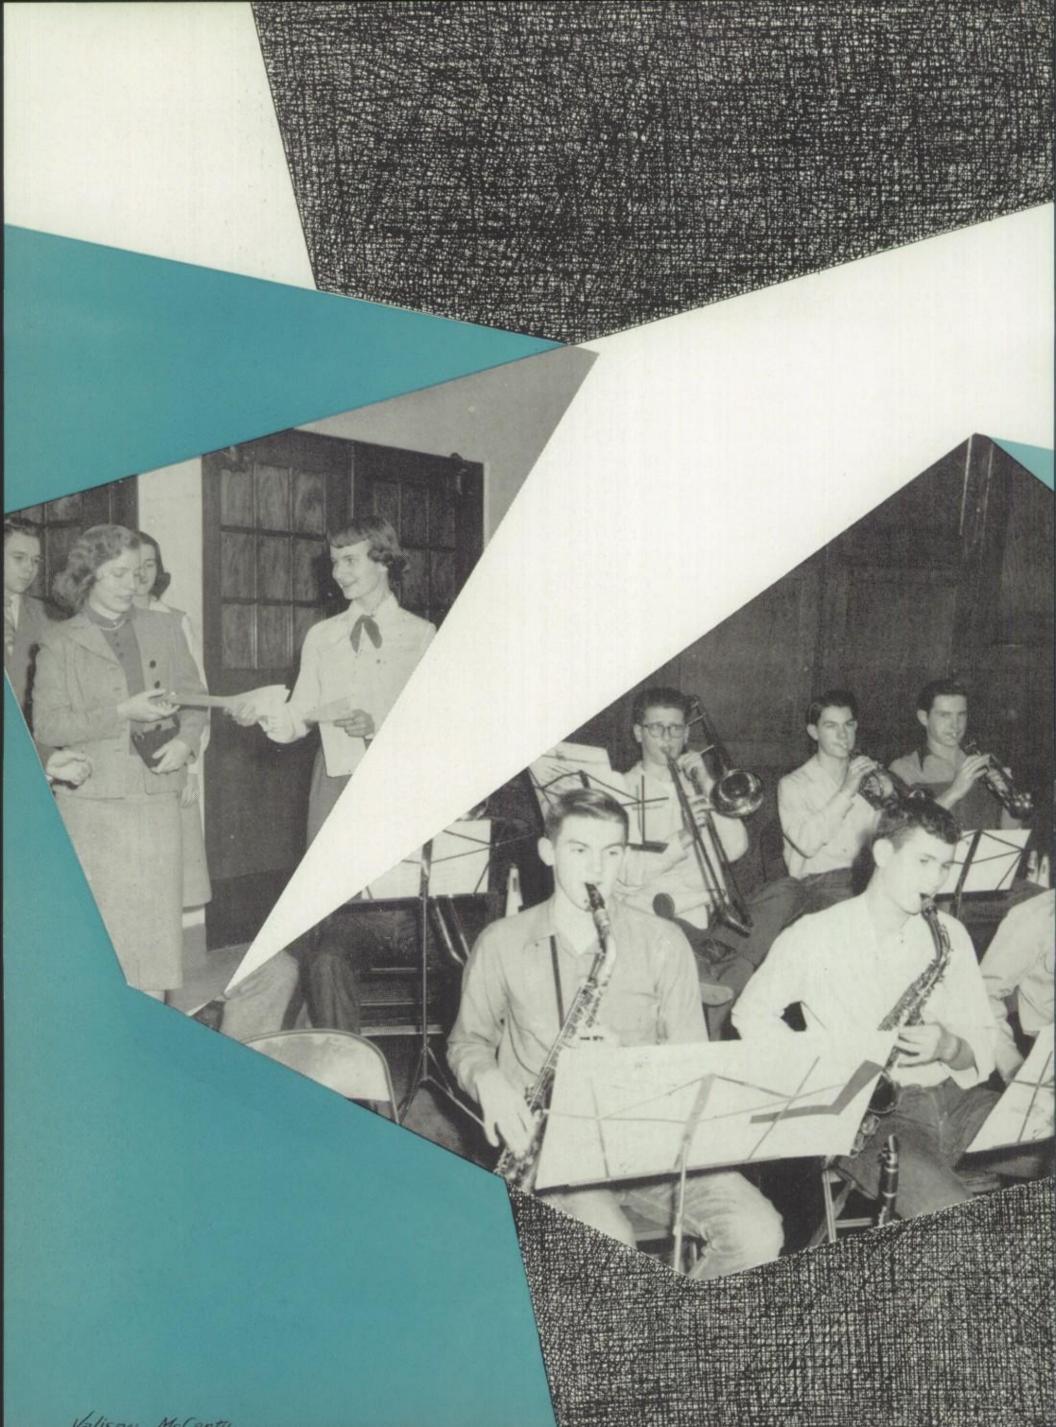

RAY BLANTON, SHIRLEY BALL, TOM CANAFAX, AND GRACIE WIEZOREK COMPARE THEIR CAMERAS.

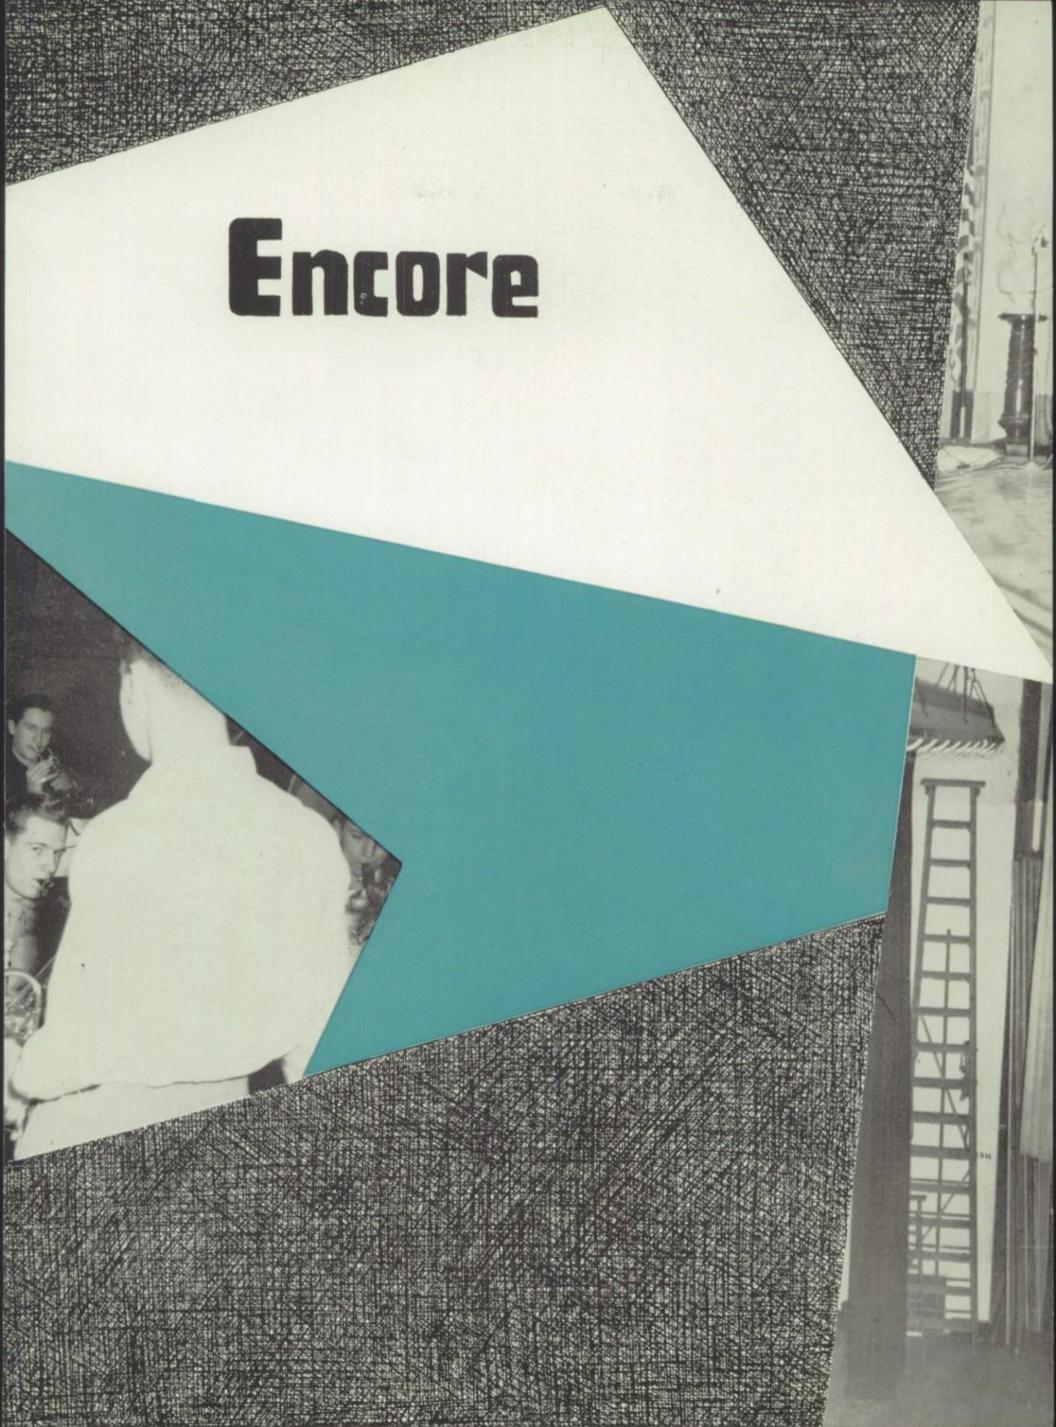

At the close of school the members were trying to find a place around Central for a dark room and to get facilities for developing and printing pictures.
